Hurricane Michael recovery is talk of Legislative Breakfast

By Amy Carter

amy.carter@agr.georgia.gov

Federal and state lawmakers continue to push for additional financial aid to help Georgia farmers recover from Hurricane Michael, a historic storm that cut a $2.5 billion swath of damage last October from Donalsonville and Bainbridge in far Southwest Georgia to Augusta on the South Carolina line.

During the Georgia Agribusiness Council's annual Legislative Breakfast in Atlanta Feb. 6, state elected leaders – including Gov. Brian Kemp and Lt. Gov. Geoff Duncan – encouraged more than 500 lawmakers, growers and agribusiness leaders to join them in pushing Congress to enact a $3 billion federal disaster aid package introduced Jan. 30 by U.S. Sens. David Perdue and Johnny Isakson.

"Georgia farmers are still recovering from natural disasters in 2017 and 2018, and they need all the support they can get," Isakson said in a press release announcing the package.

"Farmers in Georgia and other states across the country are hurting from historic hurricanes and devastating wildfires," said Perdue. "We cannot wait around for Congress to complete this year's government funding. Federal disaster relief should be considered immediately."

Agriculture Commissioner Gary W. Black said in remarks at the Legislative Breakfast that Georgia's entire Congressional delegation is putting forth "a great bipartisan Georgia family effort" to obtain federal aid for Georgia farmers.

The state stepped up last fall with a $55 million appropriation to back a low-interest loan program to help farmers start clean-up and repair while awaiting federal disaster funds. The SAFETY 21 (Securing Agriculture, Food, Environment and Timber for You) program administered by the Georgia Development Authority has made nearly 200 loans to date.

State Rep. Terry England, R-Auburn, who chairs the House Appropriations Committee, said an additional $10 million has been requested for SAFETY 21 in the Fiscal Year 2019 budget "to help a few more of our friends and neighbors."

However, the state can't fund the recovery alone, he said.

"We realize it is an obligation of the United States government to come in and help our folks," England said. "We've always done it for others. All we're asking for now is to return that favor."

Kemp said the economic well-being of the state's farmers and its rural communities is very much on his mind.

"I know many of those that were affected are still suffering and they will be for years. It's going to take us over a decade to recover," he said. "Just know that we are rolling up our sleeves."

Gov. Brian Kemp told the audience at the Georgia Agribusiness Council's annual Legislative Breakfast that he will work to keep agriculture Georgia's No. 1 industry.

Duncan compared Georgia's agriculture industry – the No. 1 economic generator in the state – to Super Bowl 53, which played out in Atlanta Feb. 3. The event's economic impact is estimated at about $400 million. Georgia agriculture, on the other hand, is worth nearly $75 billion to the state.

"Your industry, the ag industry, is 200 times more economically important than the Super Bowl," Duncan said at the Legislative Breakfast. "I want to make sure 11 million Georgians wake up every single day and realize that."

Georgia Governor's Mansion goes Georgia Grown

ATLANTA – On Jan. 24, First Lady Marty Kemp announced the Governor's Mansion is going "Georgia Grown" with Peach State ingredients and products on the menu at the First Family's residence. In her role as First Lady, Mrs. Kemp partnered with Agriculture Commissioner Gary Black and honorary co-chairs Cynde Dickey and Lorna Jackson to highlight Peach State businesses, farmers and their families at a "Georgia Grown" luncheon for legislators' spouses.

"The legislative spouses luncheon was the first big event we had at the Governor's Mansion after moving in," Gov. Brian Kemp told the audience at the Georgia Agribusiness Council's annual Legislative Breakfast Feb. 6. "That meal was all Georgia Grown and we are going to try as much as we can to have everything that we serve in the mansion be Georgia Grown."

Mrs. Kemp said the day of the luncheon that her family is excited to make Georgia Grown a central part of their lives at the mansion.

"By working with the Department of Agriculture and Commissioner Gary Black, I am confident we can take Georgia Grown to the international stage and keep agriculture the top industry in our state. Through Georgia Grown,

First Lady Marty Kemp and Georgia Agriculture Commissioner Gary Black

we can promote farm families and small businesses from every corner of Georgia."

The luncheon menu incorporated nuts, produce and protein grown and harvested by Georgia farmers and fishermen, along with value-added products from vendors who market their products under the Georgia Grown logo.

"We are excited to open this new chapter of the Georgia Grown program and appreciate the opportunity to bring Georgia products into the First Family's home," Black said. "This is another example of the commitment of the Governor and First Lady putting Georgia's farmers and small businesses first."

That being said, Kemp told the crowd at the Legislative Breakfast that he himself was a bit of an afterthought the day of the Georgia Grown luncheon.

"They had a great pecan cobbler that day with Georgia Grown whipped cream. Marty and Commissioner Black sent me a picture of that, and then I got home that night and they didn't even save me any," he said.

Market Bulletin Farmland Ad Form

The Spring 2019 Farmland Edition of the Market Bulletin will be published March 13. The deadline to submit ads for that issue is Feb. 27.

Ad guidelines: Only Georgia farmland of five acres or more may be advertised. Include price, acreage and county where the property is located. All property must be for sale by the owner. Property under contract with a real estate agent cannot be advertised. Limit descriptive terms to property characteristics or structures. A maximum word count of 30 – including name, address, phone number and city – is permitted in Farmland ads. Only one ad per subscriber per issue. You must be a paid subscriber to advertise in the Market Bulletin.

GEORGIA 2019 AUXIN REQUIREMENTS

GEORGIA DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

NOTICE! U.S. EPA/industry-mandated label changes to dicamba products Engenia, FeXapan, and XtendiMax are now effective for the 2019 growing season.

Engenia, FeXapan, XtendiMax

1. As mandated by federal labels, one must hold a private or commercial pesticide applicator license to purchase and use these restricted-use herbicides. Use is limited to ONLY those persons holding a private or commercial applicator certification.* It is no longer permissible for non-certified applicators to apply these products under the direct supervision of the certified applicator.
2. Prior to applying these products in 2019, ALL applicators must be trained according to the federal labels. In Georgia, applicators must complete the 2019 Using Pesticides Wisely classroom training. If you attended this training in 2015, 2016, 2017 or 2018, you must re-take the training in 2019.
3. Industry applicator trainings are encouraged and beneficial; however, they will not fulfill Georgia's requirement for auxin training.
4. Each label requires certified applicators to document application information. Forms have been designed to help with this challenge and can be found at your local UGA Extension office, from the herbicide registrant, or online at agr.georgia.gov/24c.aspx

Enlist Duo or Enlist One

All persons in charge of in-crop applications (planting through harvest) of Enlist Duo or Enlist One in Enlist cotton or soybean must complete the Using Pesticides Wisely classroom training. If you attended this training in 2015, 2016, 2017 or 2018, you must re-take the training in 2019.

Documentation of UPW Training

Bring your pesticide license to the training if you have one. Attendee's names will be placed on a list posted to the Georgia Department of Agriculture's auxin website at agr.georgia.gov/24c.aspx. Please allow up to 21 days after the training date for names to be posted. This list will serve as the official training record and will provide verification of one's attendance.

Obtaining a Pesticide License to Apply Engenia, FeXapan, XtendiMax

Option 1: For those seeking certification as a private pesticide applicator: Initial certification to become a certified private pesticide applicator requires the completion of an interactive, online Private Applicator training program administered by University of Georgia Extension (extension.uga.edu/programs-services/pesticide-safety-education/private-applicators.html). The online training and testing require a total time commitment of approximately 4-5 hours and a $25 fee. Applicants MUST be able to read and understand a label. Application of auxin herbicides carries certain inherent risks associated with off-target movement. Anyone applying them should be well-trained, have a clear understanding of the potential for off-site damage, and be able to make complex decisions on when and where these products should be applied. Applicants and their employers should carefully consider who is capable of applying these products safely before beginning the certification process.

Option 2: For those seeking a 2-year certified applicator license to apply only Engenia, FeXapan, XtendiMax: At the conclusion of the UPW trainings noted on the first page, UGA Extension and the Department of Agriculture will provide a 45-minute training allowing attendees to obtain a limited product private applicators license good for a period of 2 years. This limited certification will fulfill the label requirements for the restricted use products Engenia, FeXapan and Xtendimax. Upon completion of this training, attendees will be authorized to apply Engenia, FeXapan and Xtendimax only! This certification will not authorize one to purchase and/or use other restricted use pesticides.

Attendees must complete a private applicator application and show a government issued I.D. to receive a private applicator license card. Please allow up to 45 days after the training date for the card to be issued. Documentation of attendance for this training will be the same as noted above for the UPW training.

GDA announces Specialty Crop Block Grant Program for 2019

The Georgia Department of Agriculture has opened the competitive solicitation process to award the 2019 Specialty Crop Block Grant. The block grant program funds projects that enhance the competitiveness of specialty crops. Specialty crops are defined as: fruits and tree nuts, vegetables, culinary herbs and spices, medicinal plants, as well as nursery, floriculture and horticulture crops. Please see the specific listing of all eligible and ineligible crops at <https://www.ams.usda.gov/services/grants/scbpg/specialty-crop>.

The United States Department of Agriculture Agricultural Marketing Service is expected to make grant funding available through the Farm Bill, with Georgia's share being approximately $1.2 million this year.

"The goal of this grant program is to help fund research, marketing and education projects that can produce the highest degree of measurable benefits to Georgia's specialty crop producers, in relation to each dollar spent," said Agriculture Commissioner Gary W. Black. "We encourage organizations such as IRS-designated non-profits, commodity commissions, grower associations, state and local government entities and colleges and universities to consider applying."

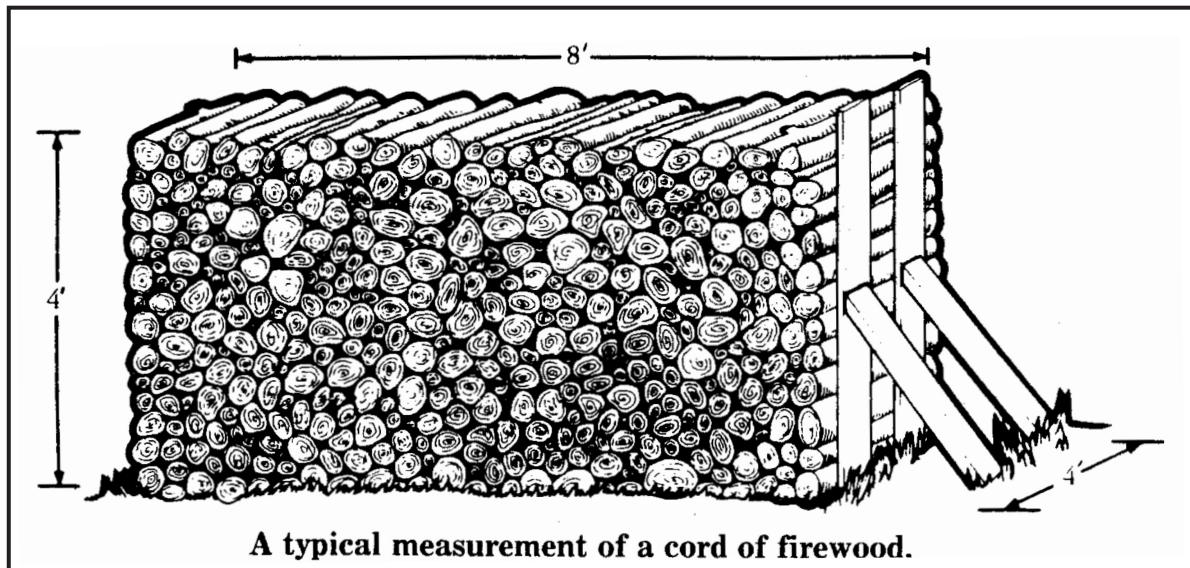

Note that USDA-AMS rules state that grant funds will not be awarded for projects that solely benefit a particular commercial product or provide a profit to a single organization, institution or individual. Single organizations, institutions and individuals are encouraged to participate as project partners with eligible entities.

GDA started accepting Concept Proposals for review on Feb. 1. Completed Concept Proposals will be due to GDA on Feb. 18. By early March, the 20 most impactful project proposals will be invited to submit a full application.

"Once finalized, each application will be carefully reviewed and evaluated by a Review Committee sometime in April or May," said Jen Erdmann, assistant director of grants for the GDA. "Then, all department-approved projects will be combined and written as one grant submission to the USDA/AMS. Upon approval from USDA, GDA will notify applicants of their status, which we expect to be in September."

Please refer to the links available on the GDA grants webpage located at www.agr.georgia.gov/grants.aspx for the 2019 Request for Applications, the Concept Proposal form and for additional information.

For questions, contact Jen Erdmann at Jen.Erdmann@agr.georgia.gov or 404.586.1151.

A typical measurement of a cord of firewood.

A cord is defined as 128 cubic feet of wood stacked by the line or row in a compact manner with individual pieces touching; it can be four feet high, four feet wide (deep), and eight feet long, or any combination of these measurements (height, width and length) that yields 128 cubic feet.

FORESTRY MATTERS: GFC continues clean-up of Hurricane Michael debris

By Stasia Kelly
Georgia Forestry Commission

The past few months have seen some radical changes in forestland cover in parts of South Georgia, courtesy of Hurricane Michael. Forested acres there have been wounded and the scars will remain for some time. Yet Georgia's forests do currently have one thing in common; they're wet.

People who've put seedlings in the ground are generally happy about the nourishing start their trees are receiving from the rain. Those who haven't gotten around to planting yet still have time – Georgia's tree planting season runs through March. In fact, the Georgia Forestry Commission still has some seedlings in its inventory, both pine and hardwoods. Call your local GFC office for an update or check out our online resources at GaTrees.org and click on Order Seedlings.

Rainfall has been hampering clean-up efforts in the counties where Michael left a path of downed and uprooted trees, and tons of debris. Heavy equipment and wet forestland just don't mix, so GFC crews have had to be very cautious about operating on property with slower drainage and difficult topography. Work is well underway, however, to implement two programs authorized during a special session of the Georgia Legislature in November, when $20 million was granted for debris cleanup and fire prevention. The GFC is now administering the:

- Forest Debris Management Program – Landowners who have 10 or more acres of forestland or a commercial orchard of any size are eligible for cleanup work under an 80 percent cost-share plan, which is retroactive. Documentation is required, including maps and detailed cost documentation. The Georgia Development Authority is responsible for FDMP payments.
- Forest Access Road and Firebreak Restoration Project – Assisting specifically with fire prevention activities in the 28-county Georgia disaster area, the project provides for the clearing of forest debris from existing firebreaks and roads at no cost to the landowner. The project is designed to create a more manageable situation should wildfires become prevalent in the region.

Wildfire is a major consideration moving forward. Current projections call for a low to normal spring fire season, though we all know forecasts can change. With a tremendous amount of fuel still on the ground in the southwest part of the state, the GFC is taking numerous preventive steps for safety's sake. Heavy equipment and air resources will be pre-positioned as needed to mitigate wildfire risk. Open burning and prescribed burning with permits are being encouraged, and training opportunities with local fire personnel are being planned. In addition, landowner meetings and special outreach efforts to underscore fire prevention strategies are underway.

Even if you live or have property in another part of Georgia, those wildfire messages are valuable to revisit this time of year. Have you cleared a 30- to 100-foot perimeter around your home, removed combustible items and trimmed overhanging tree branches? Is your home clearly marked with a street name and number for emergency responders? Are you getting a burn permit and eliminating a debris pile or conducting some prescribed burning?

Insects, specifically pine bark beetles, are another important consideration. Wind-damaged pine trees still standing can be a target. Fortunately, levels of southern pine beetle, the most destructive of the pine bark beetles, have lately been very low. However, stay alert. From a distance, pine bark beetle infestations can be identified as tree needles change color from dark green to pale green to yellow and then red. A closer examination will be necessary to determine the exact culprit.

No matter what the elements toss our way, we're always here for you and your trees.

Georgie's Drive Thru Townsend

Hello! I'm Georgie, the Georgia Grown mascot. I travel the state of Georgia promoting Georgia's No. 1 industry – agriculture! This time of year, love is in the air. With Valentine's Day and my anniversary right around the corner, I decided to go see one of the most unique places in the country to get hitched. I went up the coast to Townsend to see the Smallest Church in America, just off I-95 on U.S. Hwy. 17. While I was there, I talked to Patrick Young, the third-generation caretaker of the little landmark. He told me the church was built in 1949 by a local lady named Agnes Harper. The inside of the church measures 9 feet by 15 feet and holds 12 people, plus the preacher. As we talked, Patrick told me how the original church burned down on Nov. 28, 2015. The new building was reopened in 2017, built by volunteer labor using materials donated by hardware stores nearby. Patrick told me that lots of folks contact him about having all kinds of services at the church, especially weddings. People have come from far off places like Philadelphia and Ludowici to get married in the Smallest Church in America. Happy Valentine's Day!
